WASHINGTON, May 25.—(P)—
The Office of War Information, one of Capitol Hill's pet targets, drew a pat on the back today from the usually hardbolled house appropriations committee.

Sending to the floor a $1,038,358, 367 bill to finance the activities of 18 home-front war agencies for the 12 months starting July 1, the committee commended OWI for "making a valuable contribution to the war effort xx x and in direct aid of the military operations. Even OWI's domestic branch, which last year was assailed sharply by the committee and threatened with abolition, won praise for "fulfilling an important function as now organized and conducted."

"He wasn't hurt but he sure thought he was."

When he started work with the prison system he transported the switched to trucks, the capacity of which was from 28 to 28.

And did he watch those pennies for the state? He spent an average of nine cents a meal for prisoners by buying wholesale and drove a truck 223,000 miles on two sets of tires. "Of course meals are a little higher right now," he Handled Notorious Criminals.

Russell has handled practically all the noted criminals of Texas.—Cyde and Buck Barrow, Raymond Hamilton—just about everycne except Bonnie Parker. For some reason Bonnie never made Bud's one-way wagon.

But they were all the same to Bud Russell. They had to behave themselves while they were or his truck, and when they did he had a word of praise. But never really got mad at a prisoner untial he mistreated a relative or annoyed the citizenship. He told the tough guys. "you're just 40 years too late if you think you're tougher than I am," and kept in eagle eye on his flock of jail birds every minute of the way. That he was confident of his marksmanship was attested when he told an officer who examined his gun and found only one buliet: "Well, only came for one prisoner you know."

Bud attributes most crime to onvironment. "When you take discipline out of the home, what can you expect?"he asked.

But he says he found out that there's a little good in every person; also a little bad—that it's human to err, divine to forgive and there was but one perfect man.

Facts Concerning American Legion Auxiliary Poppy

The idea of the poppy as a memorial flower for the World War dead sprang up as naturally as the little wild flower isself grows in the fields of France and Flanders. The flower was the one touch of beauty which survived amid the hideous destruction of war. Along the edge of the trenches, beneath the tangled barbed wire about the ragged shell holes and over the fresh

By 1924, it was seen that the poppy program lent itself more naturally to the work of womer, than of men, and the American Legion gave the Auxiliary complete charge of the national program.

plete charge of the national plot gram.

This was a heavy responsibility. Wearing the flower was the nation's annual tribute to the World War dead. From the distribution of the flower came a large proportion of the welfare and relief funds of both organizations. Seldom has such a gigantic enterprise been placed solely in the hands of women.

It is an Old Failing; Paul Found it in the Church in Corinth—Those First Christians Were Not Unlike Present-Day Successors—An Old Man's Boasting

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS
What is most wrong with the world and with the church is the ingrained human tendency to littleness. With the whole carth convuised in the agony of war, we are still engrossed in the pettiness of politics and the struggle for money. Perhaps the blood bath of the invasion of Europe may have cleansed us of a measure of this corroding evil erest these lines are printed—I write at the end of March—but at present we are dancing to the jazz of pleasure seeking, and laughing over the moronic humor from the radio. We are not yet big enough for our time.

To this section of the letter we two the record of the great apostle's experiences of hardships. What a heroic tale it is! Not even a prisoner of the Gestapo has had to undergo such ordeals.
Added to these physical sufferings (Chapter 11), and surmounting them all, was "that which presses upon me daily—my anxiety for all the churches." On his great heart lay the burden of the great heart lay the burden of the whole Church of Christ. No parochial minister was Paul. How he would be grieving today for the plight of the church in occupied lands.

There is nothing new in the type of mind which thinks that ability to find fault gives it a sort of personal superiority. One day I had addressed the great open-air Bible Class in Miami, pouring out my very soul in a vital message. The next day I received a postal card from a microbe-sized hearer, who scorned me for having, as he thought, mispronounced the names of Chrysostem and Cleopatra— Critics and Criticism Chrysostem and Cleopatra-

For the second time in history, differences betwen party factions which defied all efforts at reconciliation have led to the holding or two separate conventions.

Yesterday's split, the walk-out of approximately 400 pre-Roosevelt modeling of a rump convention, and the naming of two separate sets of presidential electors and delegates to the national presidential nominating convention, was uprecedented.

It was still a little early to evaluate the final results.

Leaders of both conventions maintained that their sessions actually spoke for Texas democracy. There was no inclination on the part of the pro-Roosevelt faction to dilute the name of their group with any such hyphenated name as pro-Roosevelt Democrates.

They proceeded with their session from scratch on the assumption that the actions of the constituted party leadership justified this course; named delegates and alternates and presidential efectors; and planned to send them to the national convention at the conventions which effect that the uninstructed delegation to the national presidential efectors of the constituted party leadership justified this course; named delegates and alternates and presidential efectors; and planned to send them to the national convention at the convention which effect that the uninstructed delegation to the national president and Dean for the convention which he said:

There could be little doubt that this fight would be a continued story, with one important chapter to be written at the national convention.

There was little doubt that another would be written in court. When it comes time for the secretary of state to certify the names of presidential electors of the Democratic party, to be written.

FEW WORDS OF MOODY MADE PRINCIPLES OF TEXAS DEMOCRATS

UNION OF STATES, CON-STITUTION AND CIVIL LIBERTY INCLUDED

AUSTIN, May 24.—(P)—A few words uttered by former Gov. Dan Moody were adopted officially as the principles of the Democratic party in Texas by the uninstructed convention.

Moody said:

"The Democratic party stands for an indestructible union of indestructible states Add to that constitutional government and civil liberty."

By a resolution the party convention embraced these principles as its own and then by roaring voice vote adopted other resolutions to give further vent to its attitude.

Some of the resolutions declared that presidential electors of the party will not be bound to support the national convention's presidential and vice presidential nominees if the national convention refuses to restore the two-thirds rule; if it seats delegates from the Texas pro-Roosevelt group which bolted the party convention; and if it refuses to adopt platform principles disapproving efforts being made "to nullify state laws for segregation of white and negro school children, the supreme court decision holding that Texas is powerless to exclude negroes from participating in party affairs, and denying the power of congress to encroach upon the right of our state to prescribe the qualification of those who participates in elections held by either our state or by our Democratic party."

Thrills Costly To "Hot Pilot" Doing Stunts Over City

Buzzing girl friends and relatives is an expensive pastime as one aviation cadet at Corsicana Field can testify.

Recently a "hot pilot" decided to give the boys and girls a thrill and proceeded to put his PT-19 through maneuvers at low altitude—in fact at less than 500 feet, according to information given out by the public relations office. The natives got the thrill—then came the thrill for the cadet. Following court-martial proceedings the "hot pilot" awoke with that sickening sensation that something very unpleasant had happened to him—he was right—his punishment was set at $150 fine and three months contined to quarters.

The cadet is now asking himself the question—"was it worth reself the question—"was it worth received and the proudly that he never killed a man an let only one escape.
